HB 231 Engrossed

2026 Regular Session

Boyer

Abstract: Adds intentional evasion of service of process for certain court orders as conduct that constitutes a violation of protective orders.

Proposed law provides that a person may be found criminally liable for intentionally evading service of process for certain lawful orders issued by a court enumerated in the following present law:

Present law (R.S. 9:361 et seq.) authorizes the court to grant an injunction prohibiting a spouse from physically or sexually abusing the other spouse or a child of either party after a divorce or legal separation.

Present law (R.S. 9:372) authorizes the court to grant an injunction prohibiting a spouse from physically or sexually abusing the other spouse or a child of either party during a divorce proceeding.

Present law (R.S. 28:53.2) provides for the issuance of a protective order for an individual who is a danger to himself, a danger to others, or is gravely disabled due to mental illness or addiction to a substance.

Present law (R.S. 46:2131 et seq.) authorizes the court to grant a temporary restraining order or protective order to prevent domestic abuse.

Present law (R.S. 46:2151) authorizes the court to grant a temporary restraining order or protective order to prevent abuse between dating partners.

Present law (Ch.C. Arts. 1564 et seq.) provides a civil remedy for domestic violence in the home and establishes procedures for the court to grant a temporary protective order to prevent domestic violence.

Present law (C.C.P. Art. 3601) establishes the procedure for obtaining a temporary restraining order.

Present law (C.C.P. Art. 3607.1) establishes the procedure for registering a temporary restraining order.

Present law (C.Cr.P. Art. 30) provides for the issuance of a Uniform Abuse Prevention Order in connection with a peace bond, if the peace bond was used for the purpose of preventing domestic abuse.

Present law (C.Cr.P. Art. 320) provides for the issuance of a Uniform Abuse Prevention Order in connection with determining the conditions of release of a defendant who is alleged to have committed a domestic offense, stalking, or a sex offense against a member of his immediate family.

Present law (C.Cr.P. Art. 871.1) provides for the issuance of a Uniform Abuse Prevention Order in connection with a sentence that contains an order for the purpose of preventing violent or threatening acts or harassment against, contact or communication with, or physical proximity to, another person in order to prevent domestic abuse or dating violence.
