Present law provides that the fine which may be imposed for violation of any parking regulation established by the governing authority of any state-supported college or university, including Louisiana State University and Agricultural and Mechanical College, where the violation occurred upon the streets and roadways of such college or university, shall not exceed $1. Present law was held unconstitutional in Student Government Association of Louisiana State University and Agricultural and Mechanical College, Main Campus, Baton Rouge v. EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

There is no anticipated direct material effect on governmental expenditures as a result of this measure since the repeal of this statute does not impact the ability of any state-supported college or university to impose parking violation fines.

The LA. Supreme Court decision stated the following: "The power to regulate student parking, and to enforce such reasonable parking regulations by administrative penalties (including fines), is clearly within this grant to the Board of Supervisors of exclusive administrative authority over students in their relationship with the university and in their use of the university campus. The legislative act seeking to limit the Board's administrative regulation of student parking is therefore invalid, since by it the legislature sought to interfere with the Board's exclusive administrative power over university affairs, granted to it by our constitution."

REVENUE EXPLANATION

There is no anticipated direct material effect on governmental revenues as a result of this measure.
