16 "§315.27. Child support award

17 A. If a child support award is suspended pursuant to R.S. 9:311.1 and the 18 obligor is released from incarceration while the child is a minor, the Department of 19 Children and Family Services may petition the court to continue the award beyond 20 the termination date provided by R.S. 9:315.22. If the court extends the child support 21 award, the amount of support shall be established using the child support guidelines.
22 However, any continuation of a child support award extended pursuant to this 23 Subsection shall not exceed the amount of time the child support order was 24 suspended.

25 B. If a child support award is suspended pursuant to R.S. 9:311.1 and the 26 obligor is released from incarceration after the child has reached the age of majority, 27 the custodial party or the child may petition the court to establish an award of 28 support for the period of suspension within twenty-four months of the obligor's 29 release from incarceration. If the court establishes a child support award for the 30 period of suspension, the amount shall be established using the child support 31 guidelines. However, any child support award established pursuant to this Subsection 32 shall not exceed the amount of time the child support order was suspended."
