EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

Proposed law will likely not have a material impact on state or local expenditures. Proposed law creates the Fetal Organ Whistleblower Fund in the state treasury and provides for the purpose of the fund and revenue sources that can be deposited into the fund. To the extent funds are deposited, proposed law allows for an award of $1,000 to any person who provides evidence that results in the arrest and indictment of any person violating certain provisions.

Proposed law creates a new statutory dedication, which will result in a marginal additional workload for the Treasury that can generally be absorbed with existing resources. However, to the extent other legislative instruments create new statutory dedications, there may be material additional costs associated with the aggregate effort to administer these funds and at some threshold the agency may require additional staff resources and incur additional SGF expenditures. Proposed law authorizes Treasury to utilize monies deposited into the fund to pay reasonable costs of administration.

NOTE:
State Treasury reports that there are 389 special funds created in Treasury. The number of special funds have increased significantly since 1988. Treasury staff must perform fund accounting, fund financial reporting, banking and custodial functions for each fund.

REVENUE EXPLANATION

There is no anticipated direct material effect on governmental revenues as a result of this measure.

Proposed law provides for the deposit of any monies derived from appropriations by the legislature and any gift, devise, donation, or bequest of monies or properties of any nature or description. Proposed law does not provide a stable, consistent funding source, so the LFO does not anticipate a material effect on governmental revenues. To the extent that such appropriation is made by the legislature, or funding is received from another source, deposits into the fund would be made accordingly.
