EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

To the extent the proposed legislation decreases the number of first-party insurance property damage claims in city, parish, or district courts, an indeterminable decrease in costs associated with judicial workload, time, and attendance (presence of judges, clerks, bailiffs, counsel, etc.) may result. The proposed law provides for the appointment of special masters or mediators for all-cause of action related to first-party insurance property damage claims in parishes that have a declared major disaster declaration by the President. The number of special masters or mediators that might be appointed as a result of the proposed law is indeterminable. The proposed law provides that special masters and mediators be compensated in a manner directed by the court. The net expenditure impact is indeterminable as the appointment of special masters and mediators is speculative and based on potential future disaster declarations. In present law, a master's compensation, "shall be reasonable, fixed by the court, and taxed as costs of court."

There is no fiscal impact on the Louisiana Department of Insurance (LDI) as a result of this measure.

REVENUE EXPLANATION

There is no anticipated direct material effect on governmental revenues as a result of this measure.
