EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

Proposed law may result in an indeterminable workload increase for state agencies associated with preparing and adopting cybersecurity plans and financial security procedures relative to cash management to the extent any agency does not already possess such instruments in adequate form. Proposed law gives additional structure and authority to the Cash Management Review Board (Board) to coordinate the banking needs of the state in a manner that protects the state's financial security. Each state agency will be required to adopt plans and procedures, and to submit those to the Board within 90 days of the effective date. The Board shall be required to review implementation of such plans and procedures, and to make ongoing assessments of the sufficiency thereof. The workload and expenditure impact of updates to agency plans and procedures are assumed to be absorbed within existing budgetary and personnel resources. To the extent agencies require professional or expert support services to develop adequate plans and procedures, state costs may increase.

The Cash Management Review Board will realize a workload increase associated with receipt, review, and ongoing monitoring of the cybersecurity and financial security plans of state agencies. The workload is indeterminable and presumed to be absorbed within existing budgetary and personnel resources. To the extent multiple state agencies, or state agencies as a whole, are able to adopt unified or similar plans and procedures the workload impact may be partially mitigated. To the extent multiple disparate, dissimilar plans are adopted by numerous state agencies, the workload impact to the Cash Management Review Board may become significant and create proportional expenditure increases associated with travel and per diem costs of legislative members of the Board as the number of scheduled meetings may increase accordingly.
