- (3) Award participating boards funds to replace existing commercial textbooks with open educational resources.
- (4) Enter into contracts with management boards administering pilot programs.

Public postsecondary education management boards

Proposed law requires interested public postsecondary education management boards to submit proposals that:

- (1) Demonstrate the anticipated number of students who would benefit from a pilot program, the courses for which funds would be used, the textbooks currently being used in the courses and what open educational resources would be used in the courses through a pilot program, and the estimated average amount of savings per student.
- (2) Propose either customizing course instruction to current open educational resources or creating new courses.

- (3) Identify the faculty who would do such customization of instruction or creation of new courses.
