Proposed legislation repeals statutes requiring student instruction on adoption awareness, breast and cervical exams, CPR and automated external defibrillators, child assault, dating violence, eating disorders, internet and cell phone safety, litter, mental health, organ donation, parenthood, safe haven laws, shaken baby syndrome, substance abuse, and water safety. Additionally repeals statutes concerning teacher training on: adverse childhood experiences and trauma-informed education, classroom management, bullying, communicable disease and control, first aid, sudden cardiac arrest, and suicide prevention. Proposed legislation directs the Board of Elementary and Secondary Education (BESE) to adopt policies that require the inclusion of certain topics in student instruction and in the training of teachers and other school employees, and directs them to consider all requirements repealed by proposed legislation for inclusion in the requirements it may provide for by rule.

EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

Local school systems may experience impacts to local fund expenditures, but specific impacts are indeterminable. All of the topics of student instruction and teacher and other employee training repealed in proposed legislation are currently codified in Board of Elementary and Secondary Education (BESE) policy, which has the force and effect of law. As a result, situational impacts are anticipated as follows: (1) if BESE makes no changes to the existing requirements being repealed from statute, there is no anticipated change in expenditures; (2) if BESE removes requirements, local school systems may realize a decrease in expenditures; and (3) if BESE adds additional requirements, local school systems may realize an increase in expenditures.

Costs associated with student instruction include, but are not limited to: the development of an instruction program, the purchase of instruction materials, and hiring or training qualified staff to provide such instruction, if necessary. There are similar costs associated with teacher and support staff training requirements including the purchase of instructional materials for in-service training courses or the cost of travel for teachers and employees to attend outside training programs or conferences. Teachers are exempt from overtime compensation requirements by the U.S. Fair Labor Standards Act. There may also be costs as a result of training for any non-exempt employees who are required to work more than 40 hours a week in order to attain necessary training.

BESE adopts its policies through the Administrative Procedure Act rulemaking process, codifying them in the Louisiana Administrative Code; therefore, the legislature would maintain a level of oversight over any changes recommended by BESE.

REVENUE EXPLANATION

There is no anticipated direct material effect on governmental revenues as a result of this measure.
