

RÉSUMÉ DIGEST

ACT 19 (HB 8)

2024 Second Extraordinary Session

Schlegel

New law provides that any person who violates the provisions of existing law (R.S. 40:967(A)) in a manner where there is reasonable appeal to a minor due to the shape, color, taste, or design of the fentanyl or the fentanyl's packaging shall be imprisoned at hard labor for not less than 25 years nor more than 99 years without benefit of probation, parole, or suspension of sentence.

New law defines the terms "fentanyl" and "reasonable appeal".

Effective April 29, 2024.
