Proposed legislation prohibits the serving or selling of foods with certain ultra-processed ingredients in public schools and nonpublic schools, including charter schools, receiving state or federal funding, beginning with the 2027-2028 school year, though permits schools to implement the prohibition sooner. Proposed legislation does not apply to concession stands and vending machines, in accordance with R.S. 17:197.1. Additionally provides that any public school that participates in a federally funded or assisted meal program or any nonpublic school that receives state or federal funding, to the extent practicable, purchase food products manufactured in Louisiana.

EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

Due to the unknown variables involved in the procurement and provision of food items in schools statewide, the information included in this fiscal note is intended to be illustrative of how governmental expenditures may be impacted. Actual impacts are indeterminable.

NOTE: Due to a lack of readily available data concerning the procurement practices of local school systems related to food products, this analysis does not contemplate the impact of requiring that, as much as is practicable, food served in schools be produced in Louisiana. The LFO is working with LDOE to determine whether the necessary data to assess such impacts can be obtained and this note will be updated if such data is collected and received. This requirement is subject to the specific appropriation of funding by the legislature for this purpose.

A majority of school sites in the state opt-in to the Community Eligibility Provision (CEP), which allows schools to offer free meals to all students in high-poverty areas based on a formula to determine federal vs. local responsibility. If the cost of meals increases due to the requirements of proposed legislation and federal reimbursement rates are not increased in kind, local fund expenditures may be impacted. If such an impact occurs, it is not anticipated to be significant. LDOE provides that any increase in costs should be absorbable within current federal reimbursement rates. For informational purposes, the School Meals Corporate Report Card estimates that around 4-5% of K-12 food products are likely to be impacted by the restrictions of proposed legislation. LDOE provided there are compliant products on the market for all school meal component groups. The LFO is unable to verify the percentage of current food items served in schools statewide that contain one or more of the prohibited ingredients. The cost to replace items that are found to be noncompliant is indeterminable but is expected to vary by item.

LDOE reports they anticipate no impact to state expenditures as a result of the proposed legislation. However, the LFO believes the potential for an increase exists if the total cost of student meals goes up and the federal reimbursement rate for reduced-price meals at non-CEP participant schools does not adjust to fully cover the new differential between a free meal and a reduced-price meal. The NSLP (National School Lunch Program) is administered by local education agencies (LEAs) through agreements with federal school food authorities (SFAs). Food items for public schools are purchased through local-level procurement practices and LEAs submit a monthly reimbursement claim to SFAs based on actual meals served. Meal reimbursement rates are set at the federal level and it is unknown if the requirements of proposed legislation will impact the price of public school meals to a degree significant enough to necessitate an increase in federal per meal costs. If meal prices increase and the federal reimbursement rate for reduced price meals is not adjusted to maintain the same price differential currently in place between reduced meals and free meals, an increase in the amount paid by the state due to Act 305 of the 2023 RS may be realized.

NOTE: Act 305 is effective only when funds are appropriated by the legislature and any increase in programmatic costs will be assessed through the legislative appropriation process.
