Provides relative to technical violations of probation

Current law provides for procedural rules on violations of probation; provides that notwithstanding certain provisions relative to revocation of probation, a defendant who has been placed on probation for a conviction of an offense other than a crime of violence or sex offense who has been determined by the court to have committed a technical violation of probation may be required to serve a sentence of not more than 90 days without diminution of sentence. Proposed law provides that notwithstanding certain provisions relative to revocation of probation, a defendant who has been placed on probation for a conviction of an offense other than a crime of violence or sex offense who has been determined by the court to have committed a technical violation of probation may be required to serve a sentence of not more than 180 days without diminution of sentence.

EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

Proposed law may result in an indeterminable increase in SGF expenditures in the Department of Public Safety and Corrections-Corrections Services (DPS&C-CS) to the extent that those offenders with probation revocations are required to serve an additional 90 days of incarceration without diminution of sentence. Proposed law has the effect of extending a stay of incarceration within DPS&C-CS by up to an additional 90 days, and the impact on SGF expenditures is contingent upon whether those offenders are required to serve up to an additional 90 days while housed in state or local facilities. The exact fiscal impact of the proposed law is indeterminable, because it is unknown the exact number of days in which offenders with probation revocations (other than those who have sustained convictions for sex offenses or crimes of violence) will be required to serve additional sentences.

For those offenders who commit technical violations of probation, returned to the custody of the DPS&C-CS, and then subsequently housed in a state facility, DPS&C-CS will sustain expenditures of $107.60 per offender per day (or $9,684 over a period of 90 days). For those convicted, sentenced, and then subsequently housed in a local facility, DPS&C-CS will sustain expenditures of $29.39 per offender per day (or $2,645 over a period of 90 days). DPS&C-CS advises that impacts on offender populations are anticipated to impact the number of offenders held in local facilities, and in managing its offender population, it seeks to fill all beds in state facilities first, then assigns overflow offenders to local facilities.

REVENUE EXPLANATION

Proposed law may result in an indeterminable decrease in Self-Generated Revenue to DPS&C-Probation and Parole to the extent any offender returns to the custody of the Department of Public Safety and Corrections - Corrections Services, remains in custody longer, and is released at a later date. The current daily probation and parole supervision rate for adult offenders is $6.67 per day, which could result in a loss of approximately $600 ($6.67 x 90 days) per inmate over a period of 90 days.
