EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

The proposed legislation would result in an increased workload for district and city courts as a result of reducing the civil jury threshold amounts. It is anticipated that the number of civil jury trials will increase due to decreasing the civil jury threshold amounts.

The costs associated with civil jury trials include summoning jurors, compensation for court attendance ($25 per person per day), reimbursement for mileage ($0.16 per mile), and expenses of the jury commission, clerk of court, and sheriff. This cost is paid by the party that seeks a jury trial and is paid to the clerk of court in either a cash deposit or a jury bond.

To the extent a judge waives the the jury trial security deposit or expenses exceed the deposit amount, the costs associated with the jury will be paid by the judicial expense fund of the district court or the parish treasury in districts that do not have a judicial expense fund.

It should be noted that it is unknown how much the workload for district courts and city would increase. However, courthouses in some jurisdictions have limited space to host jury trials which may create a backlog of cases to be tried.

REVENUE EXPLANATION

Local fund revenues will increase as a result cash deposits and jury bonds for jury trial. However, the deposits will be used to pay costs associated with jury trials and in the even funds remain from the deposits, the funds will be refunded by the clerk of court to the party filing the cash deposit.
