DIGEST

Martiny (SB 630)

Present law (R.S. 43:142) provides certain qualifications for a newspaper in order to be selected as an official journal of a parish, municipality, or school board including a requirement that the paper have an office physically located in the parish and have maintained a general paid circulation for five consecutive years.

Present law provides that present law does not prohibit a publication from becoming an official journal in Jefferson Parish when the publication has actually published official proceedings within one year prior to June 1, 1986, of any municipal corporation, parish council, police jury, or school board within Jefferson Parish. Proposed law retains these provisions but provides that present law also does not prohibit a publication from being the official journal in Jefferson Parish when it is qualified to publish judicial advertisements and legal notices in Jefferson Parish or Orleans Parish.

Present law (R.S. 43:171) provides certain qualifications relative to selection of a newspaper as the official journal of levee, drainage, subdrainage, road, subroad, navigation, sewerage districts or by other political subdivisions including requirements that the paper have an office physically located in the parish and have maintained a general paid circulation for five consecutive years.

Proposed law provides that the five-year requirements and nothing in present law shall prohibit a publication from becoming an official journal in Jefferson Parish or Orleans Parish if it is qualified to publish judicial advertisements and legal notices in Jefferson Parish or Orleans Parish.

Present law (R.S. 43:200) provides in order to publish judicial advertisements and legal notices, a newspaper is to satisfy certain requirements during each year of the five-year period prior to the first publication of any advertisement or notice, including publication at regular intervals not less than weekly and a general paid circulation.

Proposed laws retains these provisions, but provides that in Jefferson Parish, a daily newspaper with a general paid circulation may be selected to publish judicial advertisements and legal notices if the newspaper has maintained a public business office in Orleans Parish for eight consecutive months prior to January 1, 2014.

Proposed law provides that, as to judicial advertisements in Orleans Parish, a daily newspaper with a general paid circulation may be selected to publish judicial advertisements and legal notices if the newspaper has maintained a public business office in Orleans Parish for eight consecutive months prior to January 1, 2014.

Effective upon signature of the governor or lapse of time for gubernatorial action.
