
DIGEST

The digest printed below was prepared by House Legislative Services. It constitutes no part of the legislative instrument. The keyword, one-liner, abstract, and digest do not constitute part of the law or proof or indicia of legislative intent. [R.S. 1:13(B) and 24:177(E)]

HB 402 Engrossed

2018 Regular Session

Edmonds

Abstract: Provides for reimbursement of the costs associated with a preemployment criminal background check in certain circumstances.

Present law provides that it is unlawful for any public or private employer to require any employee to pay for any of the following costs:

- (1) Fingerprinting.
- (2) Medical examination or a drug test.
- (3) The furnishing of any records available to the employer or required by the employer as a condition of employment.

Present law provides that whoever violates present law will be fined not more than $100 or imprisoned for not more than 90 days, or both.

Present law provides that, in addition to criminal penalties, present law provides that the employer who violates present law shall be subject to a civil penalty of up to $500 and liable for reasonable litigation expenses not exceeding $7,500.

Proposed law retains present law.

Present law provides an exception in that an employer has a right of reimbursement from an employee or an applicant for the costs of the employee's preemployment medical examination or drug test provided that the employee meets all of the following criteria:

- (1) The employee is compensated at a rate equivalent to not less than $1 above the existing federal minimum wage.
- (2) The employee is not a part-time or seasonal employee.
- (3) The employee terminates the employment relationship sooner than 90 working days after his first day of work or never reports to work, unless such termination is attributable to a substantial change made to the employment by the employer for purpose of unemployment compensation.

Proposed law retains present law but adds the costs attributable to criminal background checks to the list of costs for which an employee may be charged if the criminal background check is required by law as a condition of employment.

Present law provides that an employer may ask an employee to sign a contract which allows the employer to withhold the costs associated with a medical examination or drug test if the employee resigns within 90 working days, unless the resignation is attributable to a substantial change in the employment and if the employee's pay rate is at least one dollar above the federal minimum wage rate. Proposed law retains present law and adds costs associated with a criminal background check to costs that may be withheld pursuant to present law.

(Amends R.S. 23:634(B); Adds R.S. 23:897(N))

Summary of Amendments Adopted by House

The Committee Amendments Proposed by House Committee on Labor and Industrial Relations to the original bill:

1. Provide that an employer may ask an employee to sign a contract that would allow the employer to withhold the costs associated with conducting a criminal background check if the employee resigns within 90 days, unless the resignation is pursuant to a substantial change in the employment, if the employee earns at least one dollar above the federal minimum wage rate.