Provides relative to the crime of improper supervision of a minor by a parent or legal custodian

Present law provides for the crime of improper supervision of a minor by a parent or legal custodian and present law penalties include a fine of not less than $25 and not more than $250 for each offense, imprisonment for not more than 30 days, or both. Present law provides that whoever violates the crime of improper supervision of a minor by allowing the minor to be habitually absent or tardy from school without a valid excuse is subject to being fined not less than $25 nor more than $250 for each offense, imprisonment for not more than 30 days, or both. Present law requires a minimum condition of probation to be imposed, including school or community service activities.

Proposed law changes the penalties to a fine of not more than $500, imprisonment for not more than ninety days, or both and repeals the specific penalty for violation of improper supervision of a minor by allowing the minor to be habitually absent or tardy from school.

Proposed law provides that a peace officer may issue a summons, in lieu of making an arrest, to any person who commits the offense of improper supervision of a minor in specific instances.

EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

Proposed law may result in an increase in Local Funds expenditures to the extent average sentences upon conviction for improper supervision of a minor by a parent or legal custodian increase as a result of changing the maximum imprisonment term from thirty (30) days to ninety (90) days. The total expenditure impact is indeterminable, but could be significant in large metropolitan areas and/or in the aggregate statewide. A conviction of the crime of improper supervision of a minor by a parent or legal custodian is a misdemeanor and would impact expenditures for local governing authorities based on present law.

REVENUE EXPLANATION

Proposed law may result in an indeterminable increase in Local Funds revenue as a result of potential fines if a person is convicted of improper supervision of a minor by a parent or legal custodian. Present law provides that penalties include a fine of not less than $25 and not more than $250 for each offense. Present law provides that whoever violates the crime of improper supervision of a minor by allowing the minor to be habitually absent or tardy from school without a valid excuse is subject to being fined not less than $25 nor more than $250 for each offense. Proposed law changes the penalties to a fine of not more than $500. The potential net effect on sentencing decisions cannot be determined and the potential revenue impact is therefore unknown. The potential revenue will accrue to the local governing authority.
