EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

The Secretary of State may incur minimal ballot printing costs associated with this measure. As a regular practice, the Secretary of State typically budgets for up to 10 constitutional amendments and statewide propositions for the fall statewide elections. To the extent the ballot includes more than 10 constitutional amendments and statewide propositions, the Secretary of State may require additional SGF resources for the November 8, 2022, statewide election. Any expenditure impact would be realized in FY 23.

REVENUE EXPLANATION

HB 154 is the constitutional companion to HB 142 and provides for the investment authority of the Treasury with regard to certain dedicated funds. Proposed constitutional amendment will likely result in increased revenues to the LA Education Quality Trust Fund (LEQTF), the Millennium Trust, the Millennium Leverage Fund, the Rockefeller Wildlife Refuge Trust and Protection Fund, the Russell Sage or Marsh Island Refuge Fund, and the Medicaid Trust Fund for the Elderly. Proposed law will allow flexibility to the Treasury to adjust the proportion of fixed income investments and equity investments in the investment portfolio of each fund, allowing the Treasury the opportunity to shift investments to maximize income and growth potential within funds available for investment. The Treasury estimates that if in each year, 2.5% of the trust funds' fixed income investments that mature are reinvested in stocks paying dividends, the investment portfolios would increase estimated cumulative revenue potential by approximately $885,000 per year (i.e., $885,000 in year one, $1.77 M in year two, $2.66 M in year three and so on).

Shifting the balance of the investment portfolio more heavily into stock paying dividends will yield a larger return on investment over the long-term. Stock paying dividends historically produce a greater growth return on investment when compared to fixed income investments such as government and corporate bonds, certificates of deposit and other instruments. However, investments in stocks are also accompanied by higher risk, and investment returns (especially capital values) in any given year are not guaranteed and will vary based on market conditions. Investment in dividend paying stocks assures a greater likelihood of annual income from the portfolio even when market values decline.
