EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

There is no anticipated direct material effect on governmental expenditures as a result of this measure.

Proposed legislation adds licensed hearing aid dealers to the definition of health care providers within the bounds of the Louisiana Telehealth Access Act. This permits licensed hearing aid dealers to perform their allowed scope of services remotely, using the same standard of care as if services were provided in person.

The Louisiana Board of Hearing Aid Dealers expects no impact to state expenditures as a result of proposed legislation, and proposed legislation is unlikely to influence expenditures pertaining to state health care programs such as Medicaid or state employee and retiree health benefits. While new designation of licensed hearing aid dealers as health care providers under the Louisiana Telehealth Access Act may increase patients' ease-of-access to services, market fundamentals for these services remain unchanged; proposed legislation is not anticipated to increase the supply of licensed hearing aid dealers nor the patient demand for such services so long as the same standard of care as in-person services is maintained. Anticipated long-term market impacts are indeterminate but likely nominal.
