WHEREAS, the Robertson family lived in rugged conditions, having no electricity, toilet, or bathtub and rarely ventured into town to buy groceries choosing instead to live off the fruits and vegetables grown in their garden; meat from deer, squirrel, fish, and other game they hunted and fished; and the pigs, chickens, and cattle that they raised; and as Phil recalled "It was the 1950s when I was a young boy, but we lived like it was the 1850s, but we were always happy, happy, happy no matter the circumstances"; and

WHEREAS, in 1966 Phil married his high school sweetheart, Marsha "Miss Kay" Carroway, whom he had been dating since 1964 and started a family in Ruston, Louisiana where Phil's high school athletic ability winning all-state honors in football, baseball, and track afforded him the opportunity to attend Louisiana Tech on a football scholarship in the

1 late 1960's; playing first string quarterback for the Bulldogs ahead of Pro Foot Hall of Famer
2 Terry Bradshaw; and

3 WHEREAS, although his love of hunting took precedence over football as it took 4 time away from hunting season, Phil maintained his studies eventually earning a bachelor's 5 degree in physical education and a master's degree in education; and

6 WHEREAS, as a young man, he struggled to gain control of his life but with the 7 support of "Miss Kay" and his sister, Jan, he found the love of Christ and never turned back;

11 many, inspiring thousands, with a spiritual transformation which impacted not only his life 12 but that of his family and others; and

13 WHEREAS, being an avid duck hunter, Phil became dissatisfied with the existing 14 duck calls on the market and experimented with them, attempting to produce the exact sound 15 of a duck, which led him to develop the "Duck Commander", a double-reeded duck call in 16 1972, finally receiving a patent and establishing Duck Commander Inc. in 1973; which grew 17 into a multimillion-dollar family business now headed by his son, Willie Robertson, with a 18 motto of "Faith, Family, Ducks"; and

19 WHEREAS, from 2012 to 2017, Phil as the Robertson Family Patriarch and his wife,
