SMALL BUSINESS: Provides for the production of homemade food for sale to the public.

DIGEST

Present law provides that producers of low-risk, homemade foods may sell such foods to the public and are exempt from food safety and sanitary requirements if the producer sells less than $30,000 of low-risk, homemade foods annually.

Proposed law increases the gross annual sales limit for this exemption from $30,000 to $150,000, after which a producer would no longer qualify for the exemption.
