SMALL BUSINESS: Provides for the production of homemade food for sale to the public

Synopsis of Senate Amendments

1. Changes gross annual sales limit for producers of low-risk, homemade foods from $30,000 to $100,000.

Digest of Bill as Finally Passed by Senate

Present law provides that producers of low-risk, homemade foods may sell such foods to the public and are exempt from food safety and sanitary requirements if the producer sells less than $30,000 of low-risk, homemade foods annually.

Proposed law increases the gross annual sales limit for this exemption from $30,000 to $100,000, after which a producer would no longer qualify for the exemption.
