

Prior law provided that any defendant placed on probation by the court for the conviction of an offense other than a crime of violence or a sex offense, and whose probation was revoked for a first technical violation of probation as determined by the court, shall be required to serve a sentence of not more than 90 days without diminution of sentence or credit for time served prior to the revocation for a technical violation.

Existing law defines "technical violation" as any violation except for certain enumerated violations.

New law adds failure to report to the probation officer for 120 consecutive days to the list of exceptions in the definition of "technical violation".

Effective August 15, 2011.
