TEACHERS RE1 INCREASE FF EX See Note Page 1 of 1
 Repeals provisions of law relative to teacher certification by the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards

Present law provides for an annual salary supplement for school teachers, counselors, and psychologists who have appropriate credentials from the state of Louisiana and a national board. For any individual to be eligible for the salary supplement, current law requires initial receipt of the applicable certificate or credential by July 1, 2013. Proposed law allows but does not require the employing school board to pay the additional amount to an otherwise eligible person who was awarded the initial credential issued on or after July 1, 2013.

EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

Local school district expenditures could increase up to $6,360 per individual to provide a salary supplement in the event additional teachers, counselors and psychologists obtain certain national certification and the school board chooses to pay the supplement. School systems may use local resources or federal funds, if it is deemed eligible to use the federal funds for such purposes, to provide the supplement to eligible individuals. Current law requires the initial certification from either the National Board for Certified Counselors, National Board for Professional Teaching Standards or National School Psychology Certification Board be obtained before July 1, 2013 to be eligible for a salary supplement. The proposed law authorizes a school board to provide the supplement for individuals receiving the certification after the date requirement.

Per current statute, teachers who obtain the certification are eligible for an annual amount not less than $5,000. School counselors who obtain the credential are eligible for an annual amount of $5,000 and school psychologists who obtain the credential are eligible for an amount not to exceed $5,000. For each eligible individual receiving a supplement, local school district expenditures will increase up to $5,000 per individual plus the associated retirement contribution of 27.2% (retirement rate for teachers for FY 14), for a maximum payment of $6,360. The Department of Education does not have information on the total amount that each district is currently providing for each category of individuals with these certifications/credentials. Some school systems may not provide the full $5,000 salary supplement for each category of individuals with national certification.
