EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

Local expenditures may increase by an indeterminate amount as a result of this measure.

This measure allows the district to accept title, acquire, and utilize land to promote economic benefits for Morgan City. The five member board which will govern the district will serve without compensation but may be reimbursed for expenses actually incurred with the authorization of the board.

According to an official for the Morgan City Development District, the district's creation merely moves the economic structure and application of the city's plans from the city's normal governmental functioning body to a more targeted development district as it applies to future growth, planning, and administration.

This measure would require the district to hold an election for both an ad valorem tax and sales and use tax. According to an official with the Secretary of State, these elections, if shared with a statewide election, would cost the district approximately $400 per election.

REVENUE EXPLANATION

Local revenues may increase by an indeterminate amount as a result of this measure.

This measure authorizes the district to: incur debt and issue revenue and general obligation bonds, to issue certificates of indebtedness, to issue bonds and certificate anticipation notes, to issue refunding bonds, levy an ad valorem tax and levy a sales and use tax (up to 1%). According to an official with Morgan City, the city currently collects a 1% general sales and use tax, which generated $2,142,621 in fiscal year 2013. The ad valorem and sales and use taxes require voter approval.

According to an official for the Morgan City Development District, the district's creation merely moves the economic structure and application of the city's plans from the city's normal governmental functioning body to a more targeted development district as it applies to future growth, planning, and administration.
