EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

To the extent future salary savings materialize from the undersecretary and any assistant secretary positions being classified instead of unclassified positions, this measure may result in an indeterminable decrease in state expenditures. If the Office of Elderly Affairs becomes an executive branch department, the proposed legislation provides that the heads of the future Department of Elderly Affairs shall be classified state civil service positions and shall be compensated in accordance with state civil service rules. Classified employees follow a designated pay scale as opposed to unclassified employees who are not subject to such salary limitations. Presently, the Constitution (Article X, Section 2(B)) provides that heads of each executive department (i.e. secretary, deputy and confidential assistant) are unclassified state civil service positions.

Note: According to the Department of Civil Service, the constitution (Article X, Section 2(B)) only allows the undersecretary and any assistant secretary to be considered classified state civil service employees by the State Civil Service Commission.

REVENUE EXPLANATION

There is no anticipated direct material effect on governmental revenues as a result of this measure.
