EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

Proposed law provides that DHH shall make available links on its official website to training in suicide assessment, intervention, treatment, and management. These programs are to be made available to professions among certain state disciplinary boards. These boards, in turn, are provided with the option, at each board’s own discretion to approve the hours spent completing training in suicide assessment, intervention, treatment and management as hours that may count toward meeting any applicable continuing education or continuing competency requirements. DHH reports it is able to accommodate the requirements of proposed law within its existing financial and human resources.

As proposed law is permissive with regard to requirements of suicide and related training by the relevant disciplinary boards, the LFO projects that the expenditure impact will be nominal and insignificant. To the degree that the relevant boards adopt rules or enact practices that integrate suicide training into licensing requirements those boards may realize an indeterminable SGR expenditure impact dependent upon the scope of requirements determined necessary for the relevant professions. Potential costs include monitoring and tracking activities by the boards to ensure compliance with any requirements adopted pursuant to proposed law.

REVENUE EXPLANATION

State agencies and disciplinary boards both report that there is no anticipated direct material effect on governmental revenues as a result of this measure.
