EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

This proposed legislation authorizes, but does not require, any judicial district to establish a family justice center to provide support, services, and assistance to victims of domestic abuse, sexual assault, stalking, cyberstalking, cyberbullying, and human trafficking and to persons protected by the Adult Protective Services Act. To the extent a judicial district establishes a family justice center, local expenditures are anticipated to increase significantly. The Legislative Fiscal Office (LFO) has received information from the LA District Attorneys Association that estimates opening and operating a family justice center may cost a judicial district between $200,000 to $500,000 annually. No additional breakout of costs was provided to the LFO to support the estimated range of impact. There are 42 judicial districts. Therefore, this measure may have a minimum expenditure exposure of $200,000 for one judicial district to a maximum of $21 M ($500,000 x 42 judicial districts); however the LFO cannot determine how many, if any, judicial district will establish a family justice center.

REVENUE EXPLANATION

There is no anticipated direct material effect on governmental revenues as a result of this measure.
