STUDENT/TUITION EG INCREASE SG RV See Note Page 1 of 2
 Authorizes the public postsecondary education management boards to increase tuition and fee amounts under certain circumstances

Proposed law authorizes each public postsecondary education management board to impose at an institution under its respective management a one-time increase in tuition and mandatory attendance fees if an institution meets both of the following criteria: 1) its approved annual tuition and mandatory fee amount is less than the average amount of annual tuition and mandatory fees for Southern Regional Education Board (SREB) peer institutions; provides that the average amount shall be based on the most recent SREB publication of tuition and mandatory fees for all institutions in the institution's institutional category and 2) its graduation and freshman retention rates are at least equal to the average graduation and retention rates for the same peer institutions. Proposed law limits the increase to an amount which raises the institution's tuition and mandatory fees to, but does not exceed, the average amount of annual tuition and mandatory fees for SREB peer institutions. Proposed law authorizes the increase to remain in effect but prohibits subsequent increases.

EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

The proposed legislation will result in an increase in state general fund expenditures for TOPS awards as a result of increasing tuition and mandatory fees. The exact increase is indeterminable since it is unknown how much tuition will increase at the institutions that meet the eligibility criteria and it is unknown how many students that receive TOPS will attend the institutions that increase fees. However, for each TOPS recipient that does attend an institution that increased tuition, TOPS expenditures will increase by a like amount.

REVENUE EXPLANATION

The proposed legislation will result in an increase in self-generated revenue (SGR) as a result of institutions increasing tuition and fees to Southern Regional Education Board (SREB) average. The exact increase is indeterminable since it is unknown what institutions will meet the SREB benchmarks, what amount institutions will increase tuition and fees and how many students will be enrolled at each institution. For FY 16-17, only 1 institution meets the peer graduation and retention rates and could generate additional net revenue of $130,000.

The proposed legislation allows for tuition and fee increases if institutions meet graduation and retention rates of their peer institutions. Based on the last cohort data for graduation (2007 4-years, 2010 2-years) and retention (2012) from the Board of Regents and the SREB, 2 institutions meets the criteria to raise tuition and fees. This includes 2 institutions in the LCTC System. However, only 1 of the 2 institutions could raise tuition and fees since the other institution is currently above the SREB average. To the extent other institutions meet the criteria, they would be eligible to increase tuition and fees as well. It is unknown how many institutions will meet the criteria in future fiscal years.

The proposed legislation allows for waiving tuition and fee increases in cases of financial hardship. It is unknown what criteria each management board will establish, how many waivers will be granted and how much tuition and fees will increase in the future. According to the Board of Regents, institutions spend an average of 20% of gross revenue from tuition and fee increases on scholarships, exemptions and hardship waivers.

To determine the potential increase, the 5-year SREB average tuition rate increase (2010-2014) for each SREB category was used. This average was then applied to the actual FY 14 peer institution data and forecasted to FY 17. The FY 17 figure was compared to the FY 16 actual tuition amount for state institutions. The difference was multiplied by the actual student count and the potential SGR increase was determined. Finally, the gross increase was decreased by 20% for hardship waivers. The table below displays the potential revenue increase by system:
